Announcement Party—

A very beautiful hospitality of Wednesday afternoon, and one of the surprises of the season, was the party given by Miss Lucile and Louise Batte at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Batte, presumably in honor of the Bachelor Girls' Club, but which in reality proved to be the interesting announcement of the engagement of Miss Lucile Batte and Mr. F. L. Scott of Fort Worth, the wedding to take place in December. These happy girl friends really expected an announcement, as there were the usual interesting little rumors flying around, but the hostess so cleverly guarded this pleasant secret and so completely foiled the anticipations of the guests that the mere thought of an announcement was dispelled from their minds.

Pink color tones were favored for the home embellishment, and roses and verbenas were the chosen blossoms, being utilized throughout the reception suite of the spacious and hospitable home. The blossoms were clustered in bowls and vases with fern foliage.

This occasion proved to be one of genuine pleasure, as it gave the club girls an opportunity to be reunited for the first time since last May. Friendly chat and an interchange of ideas on fancy work filled the space of time allotted to sewing, after which Miss Evelyn Sanders generously responded to requests and gave several enjoyable vocal numbers.

Mrs. Batte assisted her daughters in dispensing hospitality and served the assemblage with an appetizing salad course with ice tea.

The suspense of the guests in regard to the love secret having vanished, they were beginning to make their departure, when Miss Annie Belle Batte, seated at the piano, started the playing of Mendelssohn's wedding march. This proved that Dan Cupid would preside, but not even the wisest could possibly foretell whose announcement it would be, or what the manner of the telling. As the bridal tones floated through the air, dainty little Lella Law Davis, handsome in a lace frock with pink ribbons, advanced from an adjoining room, carrying a white enameled basket bowed with bridal tulle and filled with cl-matia. She distributed from this small white mallow bags of rice, which contained the words, "December, 1915." Still the guests were held in suspense until Miss Louise Batte, a sister of the bride-elect, recited the following verse, which was composed by another sister, Miss Annie Belle Batte:

"On this morning's mail a missive came,
To the Bachelor Girls addressed.
So with eager heart the seal I broke,
Impatient the contents to guess.
The message was written in large, bright gold,
(Forgive me if I seem stupid),
'Twas fully a moment or two before
I saw it was signed by Cupid.
The message was sweet but sad indeed,
Shall I tell you what it bore?
'Twas news surprising and expressed a need
Within a bachelor's lonely door.
'Twas Cupid who wrote the news,
I could scarcely believe my eyes,
But I looked and I read, till the news
I learned.

Which read along this wise:
'In the month of March, the twenty-fifth day,
From College to Bryan a cadet
found his way
To a yard of cedars, where a friend
called "Bill"
Led him indoors a date to fill.
The sweet little maiden stood just inside,
All neatly and sweetly dressed,
While a tall brunette entered the hall,
And in cordial greetings a soft
hand pressed.
'Twas on this night that a play was given,
'The Microbe of Love,' 'twas called,
And our hero brunette with his lady sweet
At this place a victim failed.
An arrow I shot with a love microbe,
And into two hearts it fell,
The one was a brunette, the other a
blond,
But their names I cannot yet tell.
Time sped on, for a long short year,
While the interurban-fake—
Pulled into Bryan many a time,
Determined a match to make.
The cadet captain soon learned the way
From the corner on James street
To the Batte mansion up a short
pathway,
To his sweetheart gentle and sweet,
No sweeter romance can I now recall,
Since in Cupid's land I have lived,
For now the sweet climax has come,
And in Fort Worth they plan to build.
Yet surely it is a dreaded shame,
That now the time has come,
When Cupid's arrow must play its part,
And cause us to sorrow come.
The course of love always leads to sadness for some, 'tis true,
But surely we can a sacrifice make,
for our dear heroine 'tis due.
The groom, though fortunate indeed,
I fear
To tell you I have forgot,
But hold your breath, dear girls,
while I say
Her name is Lucile—and his is F.
L. Scott."

As the last words were said the girls showered their true good friend with the rice contained in the bags, and amid joyous laughter, pleasant sallies and ready repartee, an hour quickly passed that was truly delightful to every participant.

The coming wedding, to occur in December, will mark the union of two popular young people.

Hensel-Jones—

Last Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Jones, the wedding of Miss Ara Lee Jones and Mr. Frederick William Hensel of San Antonio was solemnized, Rev. Oscar Smith officiating, the ring ceremony being used. Only relatives and closest friends were present. Just preceding the ceremony, Miss Dorothy Hensel, a sister of the groom, sang "O Promise Me," by DeKoven. As the sweet tones died away, the chords of Lohengrin's wedding march were sounded. Mrs. Gustave Doering at the piano, which was the signal for the approach. The altar was prettily decorated with ferns and ivy.

The bride wore a modish coat suit of a deep brown shade, with becoming hat to match, and a blouse of the soft Georgette crepe, trimmed in gold lace. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses and ferns.

After the vows were exchanged, the happy couple took passage on the California Limited for the Panama-Pacific Exposition for a stay of some three weeks. After visiting all points of interest there they will return by way of Salt Lake City and Denver to their future home at College Station, where Mr. Hensel will resume his duties as associate professor of horticulture in the A. & M. College.

In giving Miss Ara Lee Jones as a bride, Temple is losing one of her fairest girls. Raised in Temple, she has made friends of all with whom she was associated. She has always been prominent in the work of the church, and her musical talent and her charming personality have won for her hosts of friends wherever she went. About two years ago she took up stenographic work at the A. & M. College, and it was here that Prof. Hensel met her and won her for his bride.

The groom is known only to a few of the people of Temple, he only having been here on short visits during the past summer. But all who have been permitted to know him have found him to be a brilliant man and one whose ideals are of the highest and whose ambitions are the noblest. He holds a responsible position in the A. & M. College, and his future is very bright. This happy couple carry with them to their new home the best wishes of their many friends.

Many handsome gifts were received. The out of town guests present for the wedding were Miss Dorothy Hensel of San Antonio, Miss Daisy Hill of Valley Mills, Mrs. Nat Smith of Lampasas and Miss Vera Asbury of College Station.

Pleasant Family Reunion—

A delightful event of the past week was the family reunion of the Bittle family, which has been a joyous occasion at the hospitable suburban home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy P. Bittle.

Events at this beautiful home are always perfect in detail and arrangement, and the past week proved one of unusual sociability among the following relatives: Mrs. T. C. Bittle, mother of the family; Mr. A. W. Bittle and family of Washington, La.; Dr. Frank Bittle of Texarkana, P. B. Bittle of Henderson, T. Bittle of Palestine, Mr. C. C. Todd, wife and children of San Antonio, J. B. Bagley, wife and child of College.

These happy gatherings of brothers and sisters renew and strengthen the ties of family feeling, bringing happiness to the dear mother, who rejoices in having her children around her again.

On yesterday another pleasant day together was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bagley.

League Social—

The members of the Westminster League of the Presbyterian Church held a social meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Janie Zuber. The hearty welcome that greets the guests here is always appreciated, and Mrs. Zuber and her daughter, Miss Margaret Zuber, are proverbial for their cordial hospitality.

The rooms were decorated throughout with a pretty arrangement of cut flowers and potted ferns, carrying out the tones of yellow and green most artistically.

Many forms of games furnished pleasant diversions, and mirth and happiness were in the heart of each guest present.

A progressive game of forty-two proved most entertaining, and salted peanuts were heartily enjoyed during the games.

Musical numbers, both vocal and instrumental, contributed by the guests, were greatly enjoyed.

Pleasant compliments and adieus furnished a happy finale to this well appointed party.

J. A. O.'s Royally Entertained—

The girls of the J. A. O. Club were never more delightfully entertained than on Tuesday afternoon, when guests of Miss Fernie Dansby, at the handsome home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Dansby.

The house already lovely, was strictly in accord with the afternoon, as the rooms were filled with fresh and fragrant flowers and rich hued plants. Long stemmed roses artistically arranged in receptacles were much admired.

The sewing hour was very profitably spent by this charming company of girls, as several pieces of work were brought to completion, while new pieces were just begun.

Misses Julia Mouson of Dallas and Amma Joe Ford of Houston were the only visiting guests present.

The pleasures of the afternoon were concluded by the hostess and her mother serving a delicious course of cream and cake.

Miss Looney Entertained Blue Birds—

A pleasant afternoon during the week to the members of the Blue Bird Club was the party given on Thursday by Miss Myrtle Ruth Looney at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Looney.

Games of different kinds were indulged in, the most entertaining of which was progressive "hearts," the game being played amid a pleasing environment of ferns and cut flowers.

Dainty souvenirs were awarded to Misses Stella Sanders and Evelyn Crawford.

The affair was perfect in every respect, as the young hostess and her mother planned well for the pleasure of the young guests.

The refreshments were tempting and well served and enjoyed by all the guests.

Entertained Friday Club—

The rare quality of appreciation was beautifully expressed in the return party given by Mesdames E. J. Fountain and A. J. Buchanan, when they so cordially entertained the Friday Club last Friday afternoon at the home of the former.

The loveliest of blossoms enhanced the attractiveness of the rooms, the rose being the dominant flower used in the adornment. Following the pleasant greetings of the hostesses, a few minutes were given to the informal mingling and greeting of friends, which eventually led to the wide, commodious porch with its ideal environments and comfortable furnishings, making it a delightful place for entertaining. Altheas of bright coloring were the favored blossoms used in the decoration, the long stemmed blossoms filling brown wicker baskets that hung in every available place. Handsome ferns made a soft green background for this beautiful array of blossoms and quite as good a setting for the pretty frocks and millinery.

The hostesses know just how to arrange delightful affairs, and for this occasion a very unique party was given.

Mrs. Buchanan introduced the games by saying that as the men seemed unable to secure peace, the women meant to try their hand at bringing the warring Nations to an understanding.

The four tables used for the game of six-handed forty-two were named Russia, France, England and Germany. The score cards, representing the flags of the different Nations, were artistically hand tinted. The appointments of each table also featured the fighting countries, the ribbon streamers of the table pads being adorned with flags, and an army bugle tied with ribbons of the countries placed on each table was blown at the conclusion of each game. As each game was won the count was given and the final score showed that the victory was in favor of France. The victory, however, was not a victory of war, but of peace and pleasure. A drum with the sticks crossed and bowed with ribbon, from which waved a white flag of peace, was the game trophy.

Concluding the happy afternoon, a delicious refreshment course was served by the hostesses, chicken salad, tomatoes, sandwiches, potato chips, hot rolls and ice tea forming an appetizing collation.

Each detail of the hospitality was beautifully achieved and received the thought and attention always bestowed thereon by the successful hostesses.

Mrs. Moore Honored—

Mrs. Henrietta Moore of Franklin, who is a guest of her niece, Mrs. J. M. Caldwell, was pleasantly reminded of her seventy-third birthday last Monday afternoon by the immediate neighbors and a few friends coming in a body, giving her a delightful surprise and wishing many happy returns of the anniversary.

With conversation and music the assembled group passed a happy afternoon, and as a pleasant finale Mrs. Caldwell served a refreshing ice course with cake.

The honoree was remembered with many pretty tokens of the occasion, for which she very graciously thanked each donor.

J. A. O. Social Session—

A charming hospitality of last evening was the courtesy extended by six of the J. A. O. Club girls to the other six members of the club. A number of boy friends were also invited to share the pleasures of the evening. With Miss Belle Gainer acting as hostess, this gathering was especially enjoyable from every point of view.

The spacious Gainer home offers an ideal place for entertainments of this nature, and games and contests were cleverly arranged for diversion. Music was also part of the provided pleasures.

The appetizing refreshments served were in keeping with the other appointments of the evening.
